BIDS REJECTED ON CITY BONDS AND WARRANTS

City Commission to Readvertise the Water Works Financing Issue

RATE NOT SATISFACTORY

Two Contracts for Additional Mains Let—Decline to Change Plant Plans

The city commission, meeting last night, received and rejected the only bid presented for the purchase of city bonds and warrants, to be used in financing the water work purchase and improvements. The commission decided immediately to re-advertise the sale, bids to be received June 20.

The one bid presented was for $225,000 bonds bearing 5 percent interest and $475,000 warrants on a 7 percent basis, although advertised at 6 percent, at a premium of $2,500. The bid was from Ballard & Co., Stacey, Braun & Co., and Drake-Jones Co., Twin City firms who competed in the offer. Representatives of some other bond houses were present but did not bid.

Opinion was expressed by members of the citizens committee present and commissioners that the threat of impending litigation when the city was proceeding to contract for building an entire new plant had discouraged other bidders, and that better bids would be received on the next offer.

The net rate of interest on the offer made was said to be about 6.4 percent.

Lower Rate Reached

Later in informal talks with bond men before the city commission formally decided to readvertise there was another offer informally made to take warrants on a 6.4 percent interest basis, bonds at par and a premium on all of $2,500.

This it was said would make a net interest rate of about 6.1 percent.

Bond men said the bond market has not been good recently. Some time ago the state received one bid on part of the bonds it offered for sale only, the bid being a rate of interest of 4.91 but did not include any bids for mill and elevator bonds of about the same maturity as the city bonds. The county recently agreed to sell bonds at a rate of interest of 5.4 percent.

A representative of the bidding syndicate argued for acceptance of his bid saying that the 5 percent bonds really were not worth par on the market at present, but the syndicate bid on them in connection with the 7 percent warrants. The average maturity of the bonds is about ten years and the warrants about 11 years.

One wire was received by the commission from Kalman, Wood & Co., stating that since litigation had been avoided, the present plant purchased, avoiding duplication, the company suggested the commission reject bids readvertise.

Proposed Change

The bids were not opened until late as it was necessary to award all contracts on which warrants were based before the warrants were sold.

E. A. Hughes presented a plan to the commission and citizens committee, changing the plans of Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Wolf of St. Paul, engineers, to provide an equalizer reservoir on the hill east and north of the capital, and to put in the proposed big ditch from the city down Broadway to the business district.

After some discussion the plan was not adopted and the commission decided to proceed according to the engineers' plans. One objection raised was that the big 16-inch main was needed to deliver high pressure to the business district in case of fire.

The commission let contract for furnishing cast iron pipe for mains to the American Cast Iron Pipe Co., and the contract for laying the main to DuGraff & Wolff Co. conditioning both bids on the exclusion of all work not now needed because the city had purchased the old water plant.

Bids on contract No. 7, providing for reservoirs, were rejected altogether, because of the purchase of the old plant.

AMERICAN FARMERS' ZERO HOUR APPROACHES

Calls 1923 Year One of Fate For Farmers of United States.

By George Britt
NBA Service Writer
Des Moines, Ia., June 12.—When you overhear the rustic inquiry of "How's crops?" you want to perk up and take notice of the answer. It's a far more vital question in the United States this present growing season than almost ever before. For 1923 is the farmers' year of fate.

No less an authority than O. E. Bradfute, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, is back of that statement.

Daylight Dawning

"The outlook so far is good, but if it doesn't pan out, it's all up with thousands of farmers," says Bradfute.

"They can't run along on paper any further. The level of agricultural depression has lifted since late 1920. The farmer can see daylight now. His accounts are not so deeply in the red ink figures as they were two years ago. But the time is almost here when he must be paying off his mortgages. The banks have got to be cured for."

"Unless this turns out to be a good crop year, I am afraid we shall see foreclosures snapping all around us." The farmer this year has a fair-fighting chance to overcome his handicaps than any time recently, Bradfute points out. His greatest gain, perhaps, has been in the intangible quality of renewed optimism. He is cheerful again and believes he can pull out of the slump.

On top of that he has the machinery of the newly amended federal warehouse act to help in marketing. He can hold his crops to sell them when the market is right, stepping into the position of the "middleman" and dealing more directly with the consumer.

Must Conserve Resources

A second advantage from legislation is the new rural credits act which makes it possible to get long-term loans on advantageous terms. The Farm Bureau Federation is very anxious to see the act still further improved by seeking reduced railroad rates on agricultural products.

"But in this critical period, the only safe policy for the farmer is to conserve what resources he has," declares Bradfute.

"In at least one of the states, the president of the State Farm Bureau has advised the farmers not to buy anything that is not absolutely essential. The reports from the big mail order houses say their business is growing. I suspect that the meaning is that the farmers are seeking to buy necessities by mail and save a few cents on each purchase under the price of the crooked stores."

"During the war period of prosperity, farmers got used to a higher standard of living. They got automobiles and victrolas and silk socks and sent their children to college. Farmers now are fighting to maintain that standard, and they have a right to those things."

"In some instances, however, I know that they are keeping up that pace at the expense of their capital investment. They are letting their farms go without fences and fertilizers and paint. That means that they are consuming their farms."

One other angle to the situation is pointed out. In the states where co-operative marketing prevails, and on crops organized, the recovery and prosperity is greater than in the non-co-operative states.

That may be simple coincidence, Bradfute admits. But it is a fact.

DECREASE IN WHEAT SOWN IS ESTIMATED

Put at 643,000 Acres in Durum and 144,000 in Other Spring Varieties

OATS ACREAGE IS UP

Increase of 5 Per Cent Seen—Barley Increase Also Estimated High

A reduction of 643,000 acres in durum wheats and of 144,000 acres in other spring varieties including marquis, is indicated by the June crop report of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics, which estimates the durum wheat area for North Dakota this year at 3,064,000 acres, a decrease of 643,000 acres from last year's 3,707,000 acres. The total spring wheat acreage being placed at 7,953,000 acres or 9 per cent less than the 1922 final estimate of 8,740,000 acres. The report was issued today from the Bureau office in Grand Forks.

Oats acreage increased 5 per cent to 2,507,000 acres and barley shows a 35 per cent increase to 1,361,000 acres according to the report, which forecasts for the state on the basis of June 1 condition as follows: Spring wheat, 3,064,000 bushels compared with 3,224,000 bushels final for 1922; oats, 59,566,000 bushels compared with 56,804,000 for 1922. The interpreted yields per acre for these crops based on June 1 condition according to the report are as follows: Wheat, condition 68 per cent and yield per acre 10.3; oats 88 per cent with yield of 23.9; barley 90 per cent with yield of 19.5.

While final yields may be lower, smaller acreage conditions during the season prove more or less favorable to the crop than the average, the past ten years the report points out that final yields in the case of wheat were 7 times below June forecasts and 3 times above; for oats 8 times below and 2 times above and for barley 6 times below and 4 times above.

The June 1 prospect for winter rye shows a further deterioration, according to the report which gives the crop a condition on the first of the month of 78 per cent of normal indicating a production of 13,764,000 bushels compared with 14,543,000 bushels on May 1 last and the 1922 final estimate of 24,508,000 bushels. The report also forecasts a total of 5,814,000 tons of hay this year compared with 3,993,000 tons estimated for 1922. Increases in clover and alfalfa are indicated.

FLOOD TIDE IN KANSAS PASSES; 7 KNOWN DEAD

Many Are Missing and Property Damage Runs Into Millions of Dollars

INVOKE MARTIAL LAW

Strict Rule Established Over Arkansas City, Hardest Hit City in Kansas

Kansas City, Mo., June 12.—The crest of the flood waters which for four days have covered the eastern half of Kansas and Northern Oklahoma had virtually passed today, leaving a toll of seven known dead, many missing and property damage aggregating several millions of dollars.

Thousands of persons made homeless when the flood swept through their home were being cured for today.

Railroad service to several cities in Kansas was demoralized. Six miles of St. Louis and San Francisco railroad track south of Arkansas City, Kan., were washed out and all bridges between Arkansas City and Wichita in the Midland Valley were reported gone.

Arkansas City, the city hardest hit by the flood waters of the Arkansas River, was under martial law. Water still remained upon the streets and in the lowlands, but relief work was well under way. It was estimated that more than 3,000 persons were made homeless there.

Reports last night said that more than 100 persons were being cared for in public buildings and more than twice that number in private homes. Twenty-five persons were reported unaccounted for, but these were expected to be found when many persons marooned by the high waters were freed.

The estimated damage in Arkansas City was placed at $2,000,000. It was expected that the waters would not subside for several days.

Thousands of acres of wheat ready for harvest and corn were inundated in the flood areas and in many cases virtually wiped out. Thousands of head of cattle and other livestock were drowned.

INSTRUCTION IN BIBLE IS DUTY OF HOME

Religious Instruction Not Successful in Public Schools, Governor Says

RAPS BIBLE CRITICS

Declares Against Textbooks in Schools Which Scoff At Religion

St. Paul, Minn., June 12.—Religious instruction cannot be satisfactorily carried on in the public schools, but ought to be made a part of the life in every family, Governor W. A. Nelson said last night to members of the missionary society of the Lutheran church in annual convention here.

The Governor declared that it was conceded that there ought to be religious instruction for the young. "Where denominations are so many, it is practically out of the question to have religious instruction as a part of the public school curriculum," he said in answer to the question as to how best may it be imparted. "It would be unwise and unsatisfactory to attempt to do so," he continued. "Even Bible reading in the public schools—which in itself would be of slight value unless sympathetically explained to the pupils—tended to the question as to the version to be used and the teacher's attitude and selection of passages. If religious teaching with such safeguards as would make it unobjectionable to all denominations were to be tried, it would, in my opinion, prove of little or no value. The very safeguards employed would tend to devalue the instruction and destroy its effectiveness."

Should Be In Home
"This religious training should be taken care of in the family through the denominational channels in order to give us the kind and amount of religious instruction required to be of any value in molding the character and ennobling the life of our citizenship."

"The main part of this religious training should be given to the children between the ages of five and eighteen," the Governor continued. "Altogether too frequently our people act on the assumption that just as soon as the boy or girl has been confirmed that there is no further need of religious instruction and of continuing them in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, during this impressionable age."

The Governor expressed belief that provision by law should be made for the use of about three hours per week of the time in the public schools "for such supplemental religious training as could be arranged for through the various denominations and groups of denominations, and wherever possible this should be increased by provision for a Saturday school of religious training."

Rape Textbook Selections
The Governor took a rap at some textbooks which he declared sought to ridicule teachings of the Bible.

"Great care is exercised in selecting text books which, from psychological and pedagogical standpoint, are adapted to the age and progress of the students, but no such care is being exercised to see that in these textbooks the Christian religion, which is not permitted to be taught

4 AMERICANS IN LAST 8 TO GET FREEDOM

Chinese Government Admits Bandits Into Its Regular Army as Condition

SITUATION RELIEVED

Foreign Relations of Nation Greatly Improved as Result of Release

Taochwang, China, June 12.—Eight captives, the last of the foreigners captured by Chinese bandits who held up the Shanghai-Peking express near Suchow May 5 and held at the Paotzu mountain headquarters of the outlaws since that time were released today.

RELIEVES SITUATION

Taochwang, China, June 12.—News today of the release of the eight foreign captives remaining in the mountain stronghold of the Shanghai-Peking express, relieved the tense atmosphere enveloping China's foreign relations since May 6 when the Shanghai-Peking express train was derailed near Suchow and the passengers made prisoners.

The score or more foreigners taken into the hills diminished gradually as the bandits released them one by one at a time, until only the eight were held. The eight were the first hostages detained until the Chinese government should have fulfilled the last of the outlaws' demands. The bandits did not ask for money, but their principal demand was that they be enrolled in the regular army. The representatives of the Peking government began yesterday in the bandits more than a week ago. The eight foreigners released today include four Americans: Major R. W. Pinger, U. S. A. Ordan, Corps, Manila, home near Berkeley, Calif., Leon Friedman, Chicago, Ill.; Shanghai agent for a San Francisco firm. There were also British subjects, Fred Elmer, Shanghai broker, and Reginald W. Rowlett of Birmingham, England, and Tientsin; Frenchman, Emile Gensberger, Shanghai broker, and one Italian, C. Mussol, Shanghai lawyer, capital and advisor to the Chinese government.

LEACH CHOSEN MAYOR AGAIN

Defeats Campbell in Hot Election in Mill City

Minneapolis, Minn., June 12.—Mayor George E. Leach, a colonel in command of the 151st field artillery in the world war, was re-elected in the world war election, returns available early today showed. His majority is unofficially placed at 8,928.

In 177 out of the city's 395 precincts, representative of all sections of the city, Mayor Leach polled 133 votes, as against 25,028 given to opponent, Wm. A. Campbell.

The mayoralty campaign was marked by activity of persons all in affiliation with the Ku Klux Klan, in opposition to the candidate of Mayor Leach, and as the result of a publication in the Klan organ four men and a woman were convicted of criminal libel.

Campbell had been endorsed by the Klan but he had repudiated this endorsement. However, it was decided the Klan had continued its efforts in his behalf.

Mayor Leach had repeatedly denounced the organization.

As a result of the libel conviction the revocation of the Minneapolis charter by a representative of the imperial wizard, decided to investigate the local situation.

BIDS REJECTED ON CITY BONDS AND WARRANTS

City Commission to Readvertise the Water Works Financing Issue

RATE NOT SATISFACTORY

Two Contracts for Additional Mains Let—Decline to Change Plant Plans

The city commission, meeting last night, received and rejected the only bid presented for the purchase of city bonds and warrants, to be used in financing the water work purchase and improvements. The commission decided immediately to re-advertise the sale, bids to be received June 20.

The one bid presented was for $225,000 bonds bearing 5 percent interest and $175,000 warrants on a 7 percent basis, although advertised at 6 percent, at a premium of $2,500. The bid was from Ballard & Co., St. Paul, Minn., and Drake-Jones Co., Twin City firms who completed in the offer. Representatives of some other bond houses were present but did not bid.

Opinion was expressed by members of the city commission, present and absent, that the threat of impending litigation when the city was proceeding to contract for building an entire new plant had discouraged other bidders, and that better bids would be received on the next offer.

The net rate of interest on the offer made was said to be about 6.4 percent.

Lower Rate Broached
Later in informal talks with bond men before the city commission formally decided to re-advertise there was another offer informally made to take warrants on a 6.34 percent interest basis, bonds at par and a premium on all of $2,500.

This it was said would make a net interest rate of about 6.1 percent.

Bond men said the bond market has not been good recently. Some time ago the state received one bid on part of the bonds it offered for sale only, the net bid being a rate of interest of 4.91 but did not include any bids for mill and elevator bonds of about the same maturity as the city bonds. The county recently agreed to sell bonds at a rate of interest of 5.14 percent.

A representative of the bidding syndicate argued for acceptance of his bid saying that the 5 percent bonds really were not worth par on the market at present, but the syndicate bid on them in connection with the 7 percent warrants. The average maturity of the bonds is about ten years and the warrants about 11 years.

A wire was received by the commission from Kalman, Wood & Co., stating that since litigation had been avoided, the present plan purchased, avoiding duplication, the company suggested the commission reject bids and re-advertise.

The representative of the bidding syndicate said that it would take some time after purchase of bonds before they could be actually paid for. The issue would have to be passed on by a Chicago bond house, which would demand full information on all steps leading up to the purchase of the water plant, and it would take some time to have the bonds printed.

Proposed Change
The bids were not opened until late as it was necessary to award all contracts on which warrants were based before the warrants were sold.

E. A. Hughes presented a plan to the commission citizens committee, changing the plans of Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Wolf of St. Paul, engineers, to provide an equalizer reservoir on the hill east and north of the capitol, and to not put in the proposed big 16-inch main from the water plant west of the city down Broadway to the business district.

After some discussion the plan was not adopted and the commission decided to proceed according to the engineers' plans. One objection raised was that the big 16-inch main was needed to deliver high pressure to the business district in case of fire.

The commission let contract for furnishing cast iron pipe for mains to the American Cast Iron Pipe Co., and the contract for laying the main to DeGraff & Wolff Co., conditioning both bids on the exclusion of all work not now needed because the city had purchased the old water plant.

Bids on contract No. 7, providing for reservoirs, were rejected altogether, because of the purchase of the old plant.

CONFESSES HE KILLED GIRL

Chauffeur in Youngstown, O. Admits Murder

Youngstown, O., June 12.—Chris Connell, who, police say, is the author of an anonymous note threatening him if he did not cease his attentions to Miss Helena Drachmann, and of a note addressed to the police directing them to the culvert where Miss Drachmann's body was found, confessed to the girl's slaying, police announced late yesterday.

The alleged confession came after several hours of questioning and after handwriting experts identified the writing of the two notes as that of Connell's. He is said to have killed the girl with a pocket knife.

Connell, a Filipino, and chauffeur for a Youngstown millionaire, was arrested on suspicion Saturday morning. He is said to have admitted committing the crime because Miss Drachmann refused to marry him.

The program for the day included visits to three farms, a stop at Flasher and a program at Flasher.

The Mandan caravan reached Vogel's farm near Raleigh to meet the others on the trip.

Governor Nestos will meet Governor McMaster at Flasher.

A caravan of about 150 cars made the trip. Mandan was represented by fifty cars and New Salem by a number. The L. A. Haven farm, and Cotner Bros. farms were visited en route to Flasher. The party was late in arriving at the Vogel farm where they lunched on milk and sandwiches. The caravan reached Flasher at 3 o'clock when the program of the day was given.

WILL LECTURE IN BISMARCK

Alwin Baker of National Theosophical Society to Talk Here

Alwin J. Baker, M. A., National Lecturer for the Theosophical Society, will speak in the Business & Professional Women's club rooms, over the Rialto Theater, Hinkley Building, tomorrow evening. His subject will be "The Fairies and Nature's Finer Forces." The lecture will be illustrated with the Conan Doyle fairy photographs and colored slides showing the nature of thought forms and man's finer bodies.

The following questions will be discussed and answered: How do we know the reality of finer forces and forms? How do mental and moral forces operate? What is the source of "Mortal Mind" or illusion? How is thought communicated at a distance and may it help or injure another? What is the explanation of mob-psychology?

Mr. Baker says that the Theosophical Society is non-sectarian and welcomes those who believe in, and work for brotherhood without distinction of race, creed, sex, caste or color. Contrary to the common belief, it is not anti-Christian, but shows the Divine origin of all religions.

The lecture which is to be held at 8:15 p. m., is open to the public.

STEAMER CAN'T REACH ST. PAUL

St. Paul, June 12.—The steamer Harry G. Grees, en route from St. Louis to St. Paul on a trip which marked the revival of river traffic between the two cities, is unable to reach this port because of low water, it was announced at the office of the River Transit company today.

The boat reached Hastings, about 25 miles south of here, late yesterday, but was unable to come farther. Arrangements were made for passengers taking the return trip south to take a train. The Grees is scheduled to start on its return trip to St. Louis this morning.

FLOOD TIDE IN KANSAS PASSES; 7 KNOWN DEAD

Many Are Missing and Property Damage Runs Into Millions of Dollars

INVOKED MARTIAL LAW

Strict Rule Established Over Arkansas City, Hardest Hit City in Kansas

Kansas City, Mo., June 12.—The crest of the flood waters which for four days have covered the eastern half of Kansas and Northern Oklahoma had virtually passed today, leaving a toll of seven known dead, many missing and property damage aggregating several millions of dollars.

Thousands of persons made homeless when the flood swept through their home were being cared for today.

Railroad service to several cities in Kansas was demoralized. Six miles of St. Louis and San Francisco railroad track south of Arkansas City, Kan., were washed out and all bridges between Arkansas City and Wichita in the Midland Valley were reported gone.

Arkansas City, the city hardest hit by the flood waters of the Arkansas River, was under martial law. Water still remained upon the streets and in the lowlands, but relief work was well under way. It was estimated that more than 3,000 persons were made homeless there.

Reports last night said that more than 100 persons were being cared for in public buildings and more than twice that number in private homes. Twenty-five persons were reported unaccounted for, but these were expected to be found when many persons marooned by the high waters were rescued.

The estimated damage in Arkansas City was placed at $2,000,000. It was expected that the waters would not subside for several days.

Thousands of acres of wheat ready for harvest and corn were inundated in the flood areas and in many cases virtually wiped out. Thousands of head of cattle and other livestock were drowned.

BANKERS TO MATCH SKILL AT GOLF, TENNIS, HORSE-SHOES, IN BISMARCK

Plenty of Entertainment Is Provided on Program for The Bankers' Convention—Barbecue and Ball Big Features of Program.

North Dakota bankers will find plenty of entertainment on the program for their 1923 convention here June 27, 28 and 29. The program committee has limited business sessions to from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m., to be held in the Eltinge theater. The rest of the time is play time.

One of the big features will be a barbecue feast on the Country Club grounds and the other big event a ball in the house of representatives chamber of the state capital. Upwards of 500 bankers are expected here.

The Bankers' Association band, of 45 pieces, is coming to the convention to furnish the music.

On Wednesday, June 27, the bankers and wives will be taken for an automobile ride about Bismarck and Mandan, crossing the new Missouri river bridge. The approach will be over a new concrete highway, which will be opened just before the convention.

At 6 o'clock the same day the barbecue will be held at the Country club, and will be followed by a horse shoe pitching contest. F. E. Shepard and G. H. Russ, on the local entertainment committee, have received advices from representatives of several New York and Twin City banks that they want to enter in the horse shoe pitching competition.

A golf tournament will be in progress on each of the three afternoons of the convention. The bankers' association cup is the prize. Last year it was won by R. Pence for the Dogden State Bank, and city bankers after the cup. There also will be a tennis tournament on each of the three afternoons of the gathering.

A theater party at the Eltinge with Pola Negri as the feature, is the entertainment for Wednesday night. It had been planned to have The Passing Show here, but the committee was informed that the Schuberts had cancelled the coast tour of the show.

There will be a baseball game Thursday afternoon between teams representing the state and the national banks of the state. On the same afternoon a tea will be given for visiting ladies at the Country club from 4 to 6 p. m.

The hall in the state capital will be held Thursday night, and it is thought the house of representatives chamber will not be too large if, as expected, 500 to 600 couples are on the floor.

On Friday, the last day of the convention, there will be only election of officers, reading of reports and final business.

4 AMERICANS IN LAST 8 TO GET FREEDOM

Chinese Government Admits Bandits Into Its Regular Army as Condition

SITUATION RELIEVED

Foreign Relations of Nation Greatly Improved as Result of Release

Tsaochwang, China, June 12.—Eight captives, the last of the foreigners captured by Chinese bandits who held up the Shanghai-Peking express near Suchow May 5 and held at the Paotzuku mountain headquarters of the outlaws since that time were released today.

RELIEVES SITUATION
Tsaochwang, China, June 12.—News today of the release of the eight foreign captives remaining in the mountain stronghold of the Shanghai bandits promised to relieve the tense atmosphere enveloping China's foreign relations since May 6 when the Shanghai-Peking express train was derailed near Suchow and the passengers made prisoners.

The score or more foreigners taken into the hills diminished gradually as the bandits released them one or two at a time, until only the eight were held. The eight were the final hostages detained under the Chinese government should have fulfilled the last of the outlaws' demands.

The bandits did not ask for money, but their principal condition was that they be enrolled in the regular army. The representatives of the Peking government began mustering in the bandits more than a week ago. The eight foreigners released today include four Americans: Major Robert W. Pingree, U. S. Ordnance Corps, Manila, home near Berkeley Calif.; Leon Friedman, Chicago, Shanghai; John B. Powell, Shanghai newspaper publisher; Lee Solomon, Shanghai agent for a San Francisco firm. There were two British subjects, Fred Elias, a Shanghai broker, and Reginald W. Rowland of Birmingham, England, and Tientsin; Shanghai broker; one Italian, C. B. Mussoli, Shanghai lawyer, capitalist and advisor to the Chinese government.

LEACH CHOSEN MAYOR AGAIN

Defeats Campbell in Hot Election in Mill City

Minneapolis, Minn., June 12.—Mayor George E. Leach, second in command of the 151st field artillery in the world war, was re-elected Monday's city election, returns available early today showed. His majority is unofficially placed at 8,228.

In 177 out of the city's 305 precincts, representative of all sections of the city, Mayor Leach polled 30,193 votes, as against 25,028 given to opponent, Wm. A. Campbell.

The campaign was marked by activity of persons alleging affiliation with the Ku Klux Klan, in opposition to the candidacy of Mayor Leach, and as the result of one publication in the Klan organ, four men and a woman were convicted of criminal libel.

Campbell had been endorsed by the Klan; but he had repudiated this endorsement. However, it was declared the Klan had continued its efforts in his behalf.

Mayor Leach had repeatedly denounced the organization. As a result of the libel convictions, the revocation of the Minneapolis charter of the Klan was recommended by a representative of the imperial wizard, delegated to investigate the local situation.

FIRE CAUSES MILLION LOSS

Trainshed in Broad Street Station, Philadelphia, Burn

Philadelphia, June 11.—Fire early today practically destroyed the train shed of the Broad street station, the Philadelphia terminus of the Pennsylvania railroad. A quantity of mail and baggage and a number of passenger coaches also were consumed. The flames did not reach the main building containing the waiting room and the ticket offices. These, however, were damaged by water.

The general offices of the company were not damaged.

There was no official estimate of the loss, but it is believed that it would approximate $1,000,000.

KANSAS COURT LOOSES CASE IN HIGH COURT

Justice Taft Does Not Decide Upon Constitutionality Of Act

Washington, D. C., June 11.—The supreme court held today in connection with the Charles Wolf Packing Co. that a Kansas court can not regulate wages of employee. It was decided that the packing company was not clothed with such public interest as to give the state authority to interfere. The constitutionality of the act was not passed upon.

Washington, June 11.—The power of a state to prevent strikes in essential industries by creating a court or commission with jurisdiction to adjust labor troubles was challenged in the Supreme Court by the Charles Wolf Packing Company of Topeka, a subsidiary of the Allied Packers, in a case against the State of Industrial Relations of Kansas.

The Court in the first of its kind. Once before its life seemed threatened when Alexander Howatt, a labor leader, refused to appear before it while it had under consideration an impending strike in the coal fields of Kansas. A controversy over the constitutionality of the law was avoided at that time when Howatt was held in contempt by a regularly constituted judicial court for refusal to obey an injunction which it had issued. The Supreme Court held his commitment valid, but did not upon the jurisdiction of the Industrial Relations Court.

Kansas sought in creating the court to solve the problem of industrial unrest, and relieve itself from the disastrous consequences so often attending labor strikes. The law provided that the tribunal should arbitrate differences between employer and employee before a suspension of industry. The state described the purpose of the law to be the continuity and efficiency of operation in such industries as supply the necessities of life, the preservation of the public peace, health and welfare, and the prevention of economic waste. It did not attempt to regulate or control all industrial disputes, but only those affecting its food and fuel supply, and the manufacture of its clothing. Even in those industries the court was expected to act only in times of emergency.

LIONS CLUB HOLDS PICNIC

The Lions' picnic was pulled off according to schedule at the Tom Hall grove north of Mandan and 30 miles from Bismarck, near Price yesterday. The day was fine and everybody was in the best of spirits. Tom Hall blazed the way in his Ford speedster and kicked up all kinds of dust so that the rest of us couldn't see whether we were on or off the road most of the time. Fred Peterson at the start promised not to cut the crowd with his Stutz, and ate as much dirt as the rest of us; except, on coming back, after he left, we did not see him nor hear of him since then. It was up hill and down hill all along the way, and skirting and circling mountain butte after butte with the deep precipice falling away on one side. The view was grand all the way up as viewed from the high peaks. The Missouri's broad silver stream, lying to the right of us skirted on both sides by the ever pleasing effect of the verdant green timber; and to our left and in our midst the eye passed over stream and rivulet, dell and ravine, deep gullies and steep cliffs, here and there dotted with clumps of trees, and the ever green grass spreading over the whole vast expanse. At last we came to Hall's grove, and here we camped for the day's picnic on the side of a hill under the overhanging elms, and near the silver brook coming down from the near mountains fed by its 135 springs, and as clear as crystal with silver minnows flitting up and down.

The first to arrive were the Halle, Olsons, Petersons and the Welches. After the ladies had set the lunch in full swing, along came the Heddens piloted by Bob Webb; and, then the Loubecks pulled in with Bob Roaring about the road that Tom Hall forgot to mark, and said he had covered it all creation with gates jangling everywhere; but Bob is a persistent fellow, and at last he found the gate which led over the breaking. Sad to relate that some of the Lions and Cubs lost the way, and never found the trail. The feast they missed up in the wild klen by the elms and the oaks fit for kings and fairy nymphs in their loss, and they will never know or experience such an earthly luxury as the Lions feasted upon that day. After the lunch the Lions caught minnows and frogs for the fishing at Square Butte Creek, while the Lionesses cleaned up the last of the picnic in the woods. Later in the afternoon we all set out for Square Butte creek near Yucca. Here on the banks of the creek we camped again. The Lions went fishing along its banks. Some of the children and young misses went in wading and provided entertainment for the ladies when several fell into the creek clothes and all. One young Miss and a child were minus clothes for awhile, and various pieces were hung on the bushes to dry, while they themselves kept closely wrapped in blankets and cloaks, till they were dry. It was such a good joke that they all enjoyed it, and the unlucky one will remember it and the creek for some time.

All the crack fishermen were making excuses for not pulling them in as usual, and especially Badden who had such a wonderful catch down at Lake Perham, just last week. May be it was because he didn't have

TYPE OF BEACON WHICH WILL GUIDE UNCLE SAM'S MAIL FLYERS AT NIGHT.

By NEA Service

Chicago, June 9. — Beacons, stretched across the country, will guide Uncle Sam's air-mail aviators at night. These land-light-houses will be placed three miles apart, and will cheer the night-flying pilot as the sea mariner is cheered by the lighthouses along the coast.

The beacons are about four and a half feet high. Mounted on the top of the pedestal is a glass reflector, lighted by acetylene, gas and shooting vertical rays.

They are the result of much study by officials to make night flying safe.

Every 25 miles will be a landing field, also well lighted. The first beacons are to be erected on the 1000-mile stretch from Chicago to Cheyenne, Wyo., this summer.

at these institutions, is not being settled, ridiculed and undermined by irresponsible statements contained therein," said the Governor, referring to grammar, high schools and universities.

"Only too frequently do we find in these text books evidence of a disposition on the part of the author to go out of his way to make sarcastic flings at the faith of the fathers. I have no objection to the teaching of scientific and philosophic truth. I believe in it, but I do object to any teacher or textbook writer presenting scientific surmises, working hypotheses, and philosophic guesses which in reality are mere scaffolding from which they seek to erect their little systems, and then to proclaim these surmises as established scientific facts and to ridicule and belittle anything that may be found in the Bible or in the Christian faith of those who use the text books and endeavor to teach, which may be in conflict with these surmises."

He urged the organization to bend its efforts toward supplying religious instruction for the young.

Greece Escapes Worst Evils of Refugee Invasion By Efficient Work of American Red Cross

While reports reaching America from Constantinople of late have stressed the unsanitary conditions prevailing among the Greek refugees encamped in the former Turkish capital, where hundreds of the 25,000 who sought asylum there are said to be dying daily, conditions in Greece itself, where the refugees are numbered not by the tens of thousands but by hundreds of thousands, are in striking contrast. In Greece and its adjoining islands the American Red Cross has been and still is feeding some 500,000 of the refugees and throughout the winter such a high standard of sanitation has been maintained that in no camp did any disease reach epidemic proportions. The picture above shows a distribution of American clothing to the Red Cross refugee children.

The promptness with which the American Red Cross met the emergency arising when, as an incident of the Greco-Turkish war, a million helpless and homeless wanderers were suddenly dropped upon the port towns of Greece, forestalled any such conditions as have been reported from centers of refugee concentration further east. There was little suffering from hunger and starvation because rations were promptly issued; there were comparatively few deaths from exposure, because ample and early shipments of clothing and blankets were rapidly distributed among those in need of them, and, most important of all, the sanitary regulations established and enforced by the American Red Cross with the cooperation of the Greek Government, the vigorous clean-up campaigns, the protection of water supplies, the disinfection and the inoculation of the refugees, the emergency hospitalization provided, combined to check any disastrous spread of smallpox, typhus, cholera or other diseases common to such indiscriminate massings of humanity.

The American Red Cross met the emergency in Greece with measures effectively carried out. It cannot and will not undertake to assume the burden of permanently caring for the hundreds of thousands of refugees with which Greece finds herself burdened.

Three Kinds of Products Advertising Can Sell

First, the product that offers some new and better way of meeting human wants. For such a product advertising offers the cheapest, quickest means of finding those people who will appreciate the advantages the new product offers.

Second, the product with hidden values that escapes the consumer's untrained eye. For such a product advertising can educate the buyer until he becomes a discriminating purchaser.

Third, the product which—in lucid moments—its owner will admit is no better than others of its kind. For such a product advertising can create a personality that will make it stand out from competing products like the one lighted house in a row of dark ones.

10 PER CENT OF WOOL GROWERS ARE FOR POOL

Will Market Wool Cooperatively Through the State Federation

Fargo, N. D., June 12.—At least 10 percent of the wool growers have signed three-year contracts to market their wool cooperatively through the State Federation of Wool Growers' Associations according to reports made at the annual meeting of that organization held in Fargo this week. Representatives from most North Dakota county sheep growers' associations were present as well as many sheep men at large in the state. Keen interest was displayed by those in attendance in the detailed discussion of the plans for grading and sale of the state pool for this year. Enthusiasm for this method of sale seemed general. It was acknowledged by those in attendance that the pool had a very material effect upon the prices paid by the commission house, county buyer, and the peddler. It was also acknowledged that much credit for the passage of the present wool tariff must be attributed to the pressure brought a year upon congress by organizations such as the North Dakota Federation of Wool Growers' Associations.

The warehouse was visited and Ed. Hardy who has graded the pool for the last three years was seen at work on the consignments which are already arriving by freight and by truck. All indication the present year point to a much larger pool than for the past two years and approaching the three-quarter million mark reached in 1920, according to the officials who declared that this will give the pool a chance for efficient operation and will make it possible to offer several solid carloads to mills of even the minor grades of wool.

Directors were elected to represent

MAN, INSANE, ESCAPES GUARD

Leaps From Train Crossing Pipestem River Bridge

Jamestown, N. D., June 12.—vividly realizing that he was approaching his destination, the state in an asylum, a McKenzie county insane patient, Albert Vetterlund, escaped his guardians and threw himself head first through the car window as the N. P. Northern train, bearing him, crossed the Pipestem river bridge just out of Jamestown.

He, with another insane man, said to be from Williams county, was in charge of State Transportation Officer O'Leary and a deputy, who were seated back of them and were unable to intercept him, in the quick plunge, made, according to witnesses, by placing one foot against the seat arm and, with a kicking spring, throwing himself through the glass. He had given no indication of what was contemplated except to ask the brakeman, a short time before, how far the train was from Jamestown.

Though the plunge was made as the car went onto the bridge, the speed of the train and the fact that his toes caught, momentarily, on the window sill, carried his body past the water and he fell to the bank of the river. The train was stopped immediately and he was picked up brought in to the city and is at present at the state hospital, where the authorities report he rested quite easily yesterday and is apparently only suffering from cuts on his hands and face and bruising on the head. One cut on the face, evidently from the glass of the car window, required several stitches. Examination showed no bones broken but it can not yet be told whether he suffered internal injury.

Keen interest was displayed by those in attendance in the detailed discussion of the plans for grading and sale of the state pool for this year. Enthusiasm for this method of sale seemed general. It was acknowledged by those in attendance that the pool had a very material effect upon the prices paid by the commission house, county buyer, and the peddler. It was also acknowledged that much credit for the passage of the present wool tariff must be attributed to the pressure brought to bear upon congress by organizations such as the North Dakota Federation of Wool Growers Associations.

The warehouse was visited and Ed. Hardy who has graded the pool for the last three years was seen at work on the consignments which are already arriving by freight and by truck. All indication the present year point to a much larger pool than for the past two years and approaching the three-quarter million mark reached in 1920, according to the officials who declared that this will give the pool a chance for efficient operation and will make it possible to offer several solid carloads to mills of even the minor grades of wool.

MAN, INSANE, ESCAPES GUARD

Leaps From Train Crossing Pipestem River Bridge

Jamestown, N. D., June 12.—vividly realizing that he was approaching his destination, the state insane asylum, a McKensie county insane patient, Albert Vettleson, evaded his guardians and threw himself, head first through the car window as the N. P. Northern train, bearing him, crossed the Pipestem river bridge, just out of Jamestown. He, with another insane man, said to be from Williams county, was in charge of State Transportation Officer O'Leary and a deputy, who were seated back of them and were unable to intercept him, in the quick plunge, made, according to witnesses, by placing one foot against the seat arm and, with a kicking spring, throwing himself through the glass. He had given no indication of what was contemplated except to ask the brakeman, a short time before, how far the train was from Jamestown. Though the plunge was made as the car went onto the bridge, the speed of the train and the fact that his toes caught, momentarily, on the window sill, carried his body past the water and he fell to the bank of the river. The train was stopped immediately and he was picked up, brought in to the city and is at present at the state hospital, where the authorities report he rested quite easily yesterday and is apparently only suffering from cuts on his hands and face and bruises on the head. One cut on the face, evidently from the glass of the car window, required several stitches. Examination showed no bones broken, but it can not yet be told whether he suffered internal injury.

at these institutions is not being belittled, ridiculed and undermined by irresponsible statements contained therein," said the Governor, referring to grammar, high schools and universities.

"Only too frequently do we find in these text books evidence of a disposition on the part of the author to go out of his way to make subtle fling at the faith of the fathers. I have no objection to the teaching of scientific and philosophic truth. I believe in it, but I do object to any teacher or textbook writer presenting scientific surmises, working hypotheses, and philosophic guesses which in reality are mere scaffolding from which they seek to erect their little systems, and then to proclaim these surmises as established scientific facts and to ridicule and belittle anything that may be found in the Bible or in the Christian faith of those who use the text books and employ the teachers, which may be in conflict with these surmises."

He urged the organization to bend its efforts toward supplying religious instruction for the young.

Greece Escapes Worst Evils of Refugee Invasion By Efficient Work of American Red Cross

While reports reaching America from Constantinople of late have stressed the unsanitary conditions prevailing among the Greek refugees encamped in the former Turkish capital, where hundreds of the 25,000 who sought asylum there are said to be dying daily, conditions in Greece itself, where the refugees are numbered not by the tens of thousands but by hundreds of thousands, are in striking contrast. In Greece and its adjoining islands the American Red Cross has been and still is feeding some 500,000 of the refugees and throughout the winter such a high standard of sanitation has been maintained that in no camp did any disease reach epidemic proportions. The picture above shows a distribution of American clothing to the Red Cross refugee children.

The promptness with which the American Red Cross met the emergency arising when, as an incident of the Greco-Turkish war, a million helpless and homeless wanderers were suddenly dropped upon the port towns of Greece, forestalled any such conditions as have been reported from centers of refugee concentration further east. There was little suffering from hunger and starvation because rations were promptly issued; there were comparatively few deaths from exposure, because ample and early shipments of clothing and blankets were rapidly distributed among those in need of them, and most important of all, the sanitary regulations, established and enforced by the American Red Cross with the cooperation of the Greek Government, the vigorous clean-up campaigns, the protection of the water supplies, the disinfection and the inoculation of the refugees, the emergency hospitalization provided, combined to check any disastrous spread of smallpox, typhus, cholera or other diseases common to such indiscriminate massings of humanity.

The American Red Cross met the emergency measures effectively carried out. It cannot and will not undertake to assume the burden of permanently caring for the hundreds of thousands of refugees with which Greece finds herself burdened.

Three Kinds of Products Advertising Can Sell

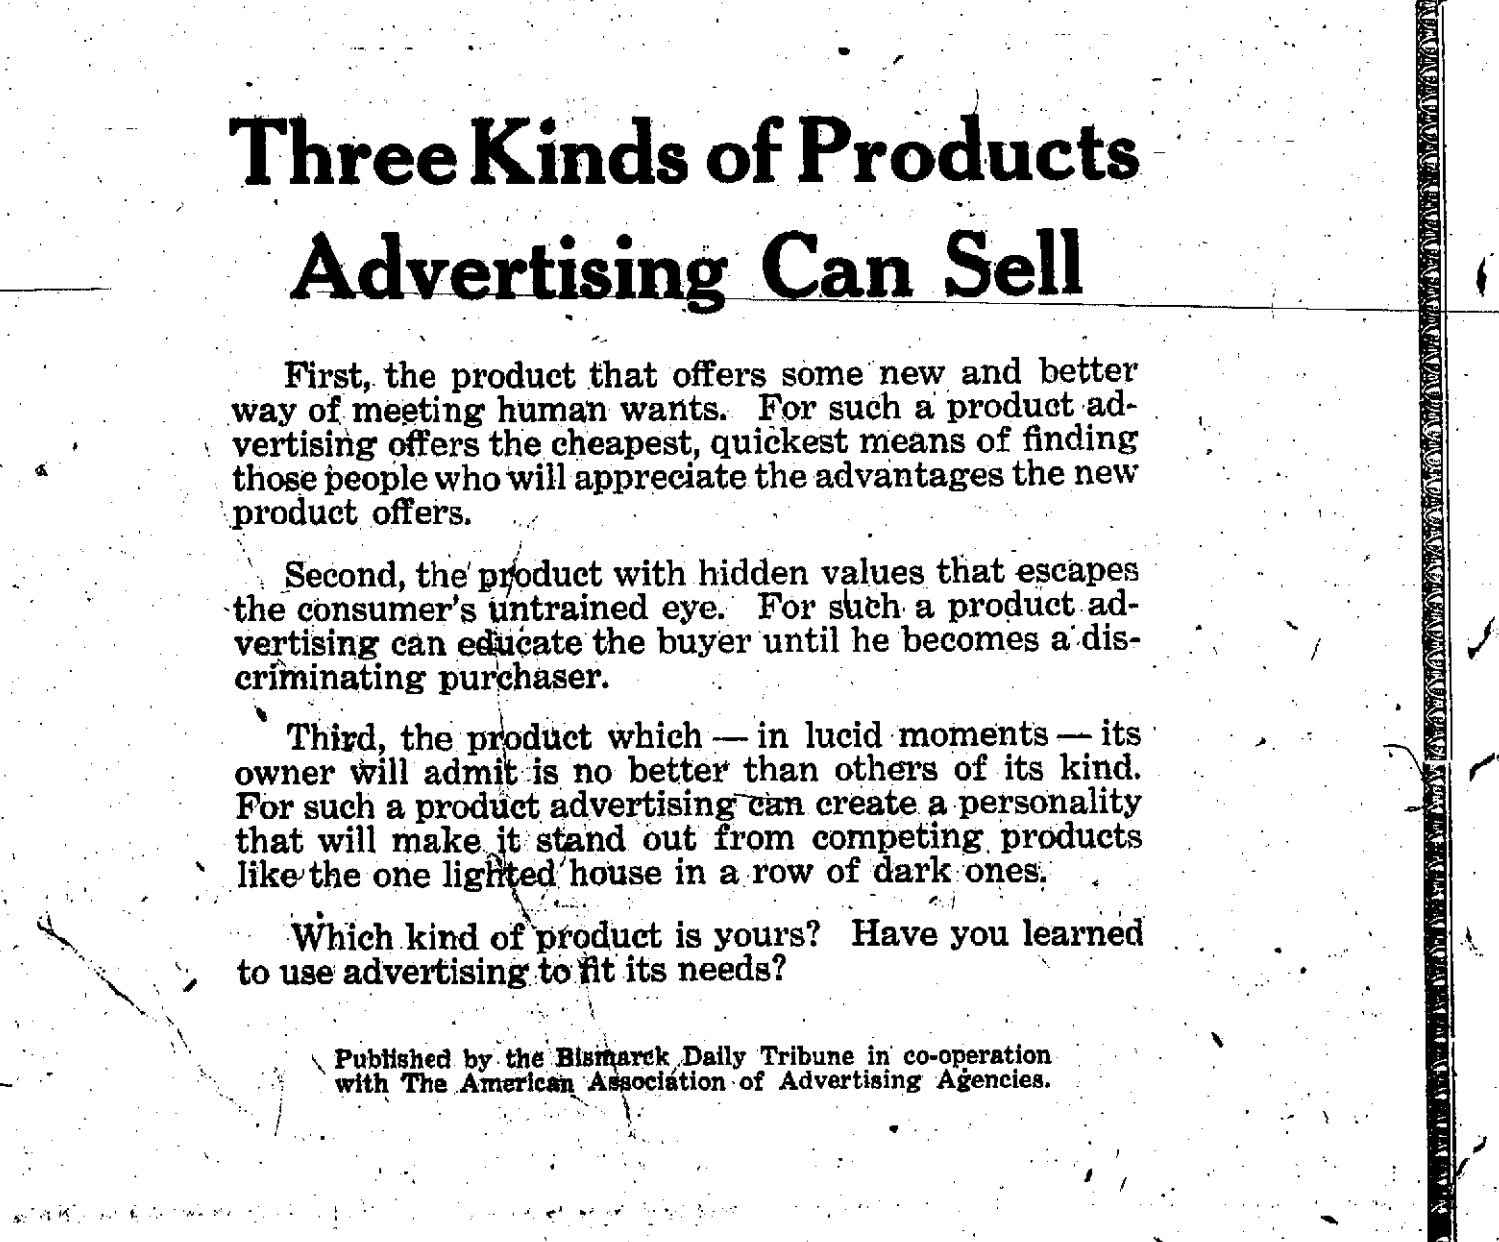

First, the product that offers some new and better way of meeting human wants. For such a product advertising offers the cheapest, quickest means of finding those people who will appreciate the advantages the new product offers.

Second, the product with hidden values that escapes the consumer's untrained eye. For such a product advertising can educate the buyer until he becomes a discriminating purchaser.

Third, the product which—in lucid moments—its owner will admit is no better than others of its kind. For such a product advertising can create a personality that will make it stand out from competing products like the one lighted house in a row of dark ones.

Which kind of product is yours? Have you learned to use advertising to fit its needs?

SEX LURE
What qualities in women are most attractive to a man? All women who are not interested in this question may pass on and read something else. What? You'll stay? All right:

Before us is a copy of a matrimonial paper in which thousands of lonesome souls advertise for mates. While aware that beautiful women are as numerous in America as flakes in a snowstorm, we had no idea that there are so many super-beauties, until we began reading the lady-advertisers' descriptions of themselves. Here's a typical ad:

Greenville, Tenn.—Am liberal minded, and men tell me I'm a wonderful pal, am sweet and womanly, love the outdoors, am a beautiful girl, attractively dressed at all times, age 22, 5 feet 6 inches, 120 pounds, dark-blue eyes, dark hair, fair complexion, superbly formed, stenographer, Christian, American, wish to hear from men of education and refinement, with matrimony in view.

Another modest young lady advertises:

Indianapolis, Ind.—Everyone seems to enjoy being in my company and am told I'm very good looking; was wealthy, but met with reverses so now have only myself; am well educated, a nurse by profession, age 30, height 5-7, weight 120, brown hair, hazel eyes, fair complexion, slender form; splendid personality; American. If I meet the right man, would marry.

Some of the ladies who advertise for husbands print their pictures, shrewdly realizing that "seeing's believing." Striking an average, the advertisers seem convinced that the womanly qualities appealing most to a man are these:

Beautiful face. Attractive figure. Clean character record. Educated and experienced enough not to be a dumbbell. Good pal, not a nag, willing to let husband retain some of his bachelor freedom.

It is characteristic of the young generation that ability to cook, sew and otherwise keep house are considered secondary by the advertisers.

Among the advertisers who have had experience in the love lottery—widows—the word "jolly" seems to be considered as much as lure as "beauty." Incidentally, these experienced ones are almost unanimous in demanding that applicants be "sober and industrious."

How about the woman of advanced years? What can she offer that is alluring? Alas, a perusal of the ads indicates they never get so old but what they believe they still are beauties. An old lady of 72, craving a mate, writes:

San Diego, Calif.—At my age, could not marry a man without means. Own my own home and do all my housework, have one son with me at present; am a widow, age 72, height 5-8, weight 175, hair is silvery white, good looking; pleasant and jolly disposition. Have $7000. Will exchange photos.

You'll note she has a dowry. At least half of the advertisers hold forth similar lures, usually with the string that they will "inherit." The dowry, you know, is an ancient lure, most men wanting to get by without working.

DIAMONDS

Riding a mule across a plowed field in Arkansas, farmer John Huddleston noticed something bright shining in the sunlight. Shortly after, he sold his 40-acre farm for $36,000. For the bright stone he picked up was a diamond.

A government bulletin tells us that, since then, 6000 diamonds have been mined in Arkansas. Diamonds have also been found in other states. Some were of nearby volcanic origin, but most of them were brought down from Canada by glaciers. One of these days a prospector will discover the "mother lode" in the Far North. There'll be some excitement then, unless scientists by that time will be making diamonds cheaply in the laboratory, as they probably will.

FARMERS:

We are far from being balanced evenly in our system of economics. The New York Herald figures that a plasterer in New York City for eight hours' work gets as much money as the farmer has been averaging for 762 eggs.

The intelligent plasterer will tell you that it's not a matter of him getting too much but of the farmer not getting enough. Too many middlemen upset the economic balance. Solution of a great many of our pocketbook problems is in finding a shortcut between farmer and consumer. Like looking for needle in haystack.

JOKER

New York Herald says it takes 23 chickens weighing three pounds each to pay a painter for one day's work in New York City. It figures on the basis of what the farmer, who raises the chickens, receives. The joker becomes apparent when the painter goes out and tries to buy his 23 chickens with his day's wage. A money system, based on exchange of units of commodities instead of gold, might be fairer for most of us.

FRIENDLY

The world is not as friendly as it used to be, laments Mrs. Charlotte Bennett, 99, Michigan pioneer. She blames "commercialized life."

Causes often produce effects the direct opposite of what you expect. The closer people congregate, the more isolated they become. However, people are as friendly as ever. It's simply harder to get acquainted. Better be the big frog in a small puddle than small frog in a lake.

Shut your mouth and open your eyes. Now that's the way for a girl to catch a June groom.

These fool flies wouldn't be so bad if they had sense enough to eat and go on back home.

Our idea of a fine job these days would be sitting on a cake of ice waiting for it to melt.

You never can tell when we will have a flood. Let the children learn to swim this summer.

People going on picnics to forget everything usually forget even the salt for the eggs.

Find a bridge. Jump off and break a leg. A very effective method of staying single this June.

Chairs last longer if tacks are placed upright in the seat.

A porch swing may stay still, and still go a long ways toward landing a prospective husband.

Washing the hands in gloves protects the skin wonderfully.

The honeymoon ends when the furniture store collector begins.

Pitching horseshoes would be a nice game if chewing tobacco wasn't such a bad habit.

We took this land away from the Indians. Eskimos better not start anything these hot days.

A common dog is the safest watch dog. Get a valuable dog and burglars may steal him.

To keep a new table, photograph or piano looking nice, make the family wear rubber heels.

Save old electric light globes. Very valuable for scaring stray cats at night.

Our expert opinion is that the man who calls sweat perspiration doesn't know much about it.

Faint heart never won fair lady, but faint light has won fair lady many a faint heart.

Men are not always superior to animals. A horse can switch his tail to keep the flies off.

Get sent to jail for 30 days. Then you will escape marrying during the dangerous June days.

Many homes have been broken up by men wanting to sit on the front porch in their bare feet.

Climb a flag pole and don't come down until July. This is a simple way of staying single.

Every summer, when it gets hot, we decide we want to grow up and be an ice cream maker.

Our idea of fun would be being one of these mammals frozen in the ice ten million years ago.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

Puff! Puff! Puff!
The Choo-Choo Express came to another station in Choo-Choo Land and stopped.

"All out for Zoo Town," called Mister Punch, the conductor man.

"Zoo Town!" repeated Nancy. "There isn't a bit of use of us getting out, for I'm sure that Ruby Joan, my lost rag doll wouldn't come here. She's been dreadfully afraid of animals ever since the day Fido got her and shook her until her cotton all came out. She's never been the same since."

"Oh, but there are no animals in Zoo Town," said Mister Punch. "There are nice quiet toy animals. Even the tigers and lions are tame as woolly lambs."

"Oh, that's different!" said Nancy. "Come, Nick, let's hurry and ask everybody if they have seen her. Poor, dear Ruby Joan! I'm afraid she'll be crying her shoe-button eyes out if we don't find her soon."

So they hurried away. The first person they met was a rocking-horse.

"Did you see Ruby Joan, my rag doll?" asked Nancy.

"No, I didn't," whinnied the horse, rocking away down the street.

"Did you see Ruby Joan?" Nancy asked, turning to a shiny black leather Puss-in-boots who wore a handsome red cloth coat with a gorgeous white neck ruff.

"Sorry, Mistress Nancy, but I haven't seen a sign of her," replied Puss with a stately bow. "Did you ask the brown flannel monkey with the long tail?"

"No, but we will," said Nancy. But Jocko knew nothing either, or the Teddy Bear, or the Moo Cow, or Radio Rex, the dog that jumped out of his house when you called him.

The Twins had to go back to the station and get on Mister Toad's train again without finding Ruby Joan.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

I am going to deposit this letter from Sally Atherton in this little secret drawer and when I am inclined to think my lot is hard and when I find myself rebelling against my little annoyances, I am going to take it out and read it.

Strange, isn't it, that most women will face a great calamity when it comes into their lives just as bravely as Sally? I also believe that most of them will worry and fret about the little nagging pin-pricks of life as I do.

Most of us rebel daily against the little encroachments which the sordid business of living makes upon husband and wife and their love. These little everyday annoyances should be gilded by love with the shining gold of forbearance.

Lovers, as you know dear little Marquise, are never partners in the true sense of the word and most young people are greatly surprised and even shocked when they find that marriage is a business pure and simple.

I am going tomorrow to see Alice and mother and dad are coming back with me.

I am going to make mother explain what she said in her last letter to me. Why should young married people have worries at the beginning of their married lives? Why should that knit their affections so closely together?

I don't believe I shall need that explanation so much as I would have, had I not received Sally's letter. Sometimes I almost find it in my heart to envy Sally. She has made herself so indispensable to her husband.

I do not know what I would do if I were placed in a similar position. You probably will not understand this, you "gray little Marquise," for, if I read your letters right, you were always just a care-free bit of thistle-down that was content to be the secret sweetheart of a king.

Today, my dear, no woman wants to be dependent on any man's whim even though he thinks the whim is a love impulse. I shall teach my daughters something stable by which they will be able to support themselves if necessary.

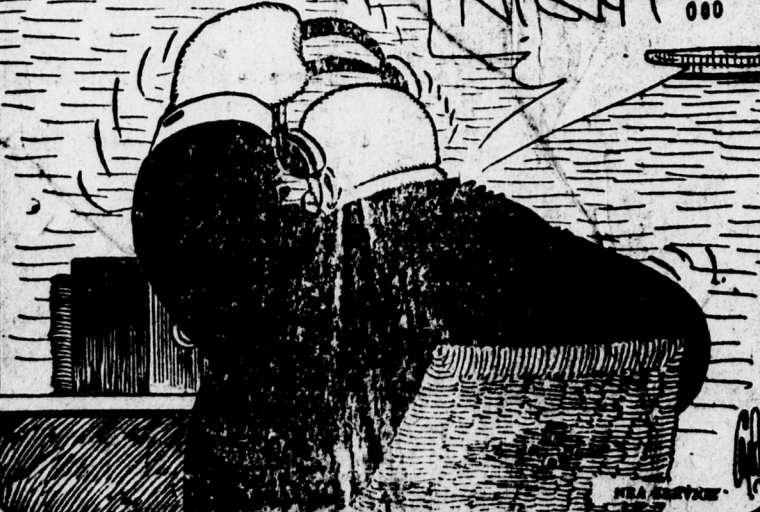

Mother will have to tell me something, however, when she comes. She will have to tell me how I can make myself a greater help to Jack. He has seemed so tired lately. He has not wanted to leave the house at night and has hardly spoken to me all the evening.

I hate to tell him I am going to New York as it means I'll have to ask him for more money. I feel like a beggar as he told me it was his money and he gave me that poor little ten dollars with the lordly gesture of a prince bestowing aims on a mendicant.

Dad has got to give me a thousand dollars for Sally. I am sure he will for he always liked her and I believe that her letter has done his daughter more than that much good.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Calvin Gray is the enemy of Colonel Henry Nelson, a banker. Gus Briskow strikes oil and meets Gray, who proves a friend in need to the Briskow family. As to the daughter, falls in love with Gray, but he loves Barbara Parker. Bud Briskow, son of Gus, falls into the hands of an adventurer from whom Gray rescues him. Briskow buys a beautiful home and Gray visits him there. Gray hires Mallow and two associates to keep close watch of Nelson's activities in the oil fields. Gray tells the president of the largest bank in Dallas of his hate for Nelson.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY
"We got a slave that tends the door, but I ain't got gentled up to bells an' things yet. Allie's away an' Ma's layin' down, so—" "Ma isn't ill, I hope?" "N-no. Just ailin'."

"You were in luck to find a house in such a smart neighborhood Gus. Now show me around quickly, for I'm dying to see it."

"Lord, I'm dyin' to show it to somebody! You're the first one that's dropped in an' we've been here 'most two weeks. Say, you'll stay an' eat supper, won't you?"

"Of course I will, and breakfast, too, if you can take care of me."

"Pshaw! Didn't we take keer of you when you come to the ranch? We got three niggers now just dinnin' the housework. I'd of bought a bigger house if they'd of let me, but—"

"It is large enough. Anything more would merely add to your cares."

"Allie and Ma picked out the furniture. Swell, ain't it?"

"Beautiful!" Gray exclaimed, inwardly he groaned, for, although the contents of the home appeared to be expensive, almost ostentatious, they nevertheless betrayed a conspicuous lack of taste both in character and in arrangement. Here and there were color combinations so atrocious that they positively hurt the place.

On the whole, however, the caller looked better than he had expected, and such indications of harmony and restraint as he detected he attributed to Allie. It was a nice enough home, and with a little change, a little rearrangement, it could be made attractive even to one of elegant tastes. Those changes, of course, Gray determined to make.

"Allie's gone out to the old farm to get some stuff for Ma," the father explained in due time. "Some pitchers of her an' Buddy when they was little an' a rockin' chair an' Ma's favorite bedspread, an' some other things she likes."

Gray remembered the portraits executed by a St. Louis "enlargement" concern. They had wide gilt frames and were protected from ravaging flies by mosquito netting. He hoped that Ma would not hang them in the hall or the living-room. And that rocker, for which she yearned, was probably the one with the creaking coiled springs—the one that had leaped after him and clasped his jaws like an alligator.

"By the way, how does Buddy like the new home?" the latter inquired.

"He ain't seen it yet. Says he's too busy to leave the job. What you, done to that boy, anyhow?"

"I'm making a real man out of him—and an oil man, too. He knew how to dress tools when I got him. Before long he'll be able to take charge of your property and run it on practical lines."

"Tell me, Gus, how much money have you got?"

"I dunno. Figgers over a thousand dollars don't mean much to me."

Gray searched the speaker's face with a speculative gaze. "It's mostly liquid I presume." There was a pause. "I mean it's in cash or the equivalent."

"Oh, sure! These bonds an' stocks an' things—" Briskow shook his head disapprovingly. "Land ain't any too safe, either. It's rainin' now, an' it'll keep on rainin' till the farmers is all drowned out. Next year it'll be droughty an' fry 'em to a crisp. No I'm skeered of land. I'm skeered of everything!" This last was said plaintively.

"You're the only man I ever knowed that I'd bank my life on. An' you're smart. You wouldn't take Buddy, but mebbe you'd kinda take me, take all of us. I tell you I'm skeered!"

"Just how much confidence do I inspire in you?" Gray's expression was peculiar, for amazement, doubt, eagerness were equally blended.

"This much: I'd turn the hull works over to you, if you'd look out for us."

For quite a while the caller sat with head bowed, with his gaze fixed upon the flames; when he looked up his face was red, his eyes were brighter than usual.

"You don't know how much I'd like to say yes, but I fought Buddy to prevent him from making a mistake, and I shan't allow you to make this one."

"H-m-m! Will you keep me from makin' other mistakes?" "I will, if I can."

"Mebbe that's enough. Anyhow, I'll sleep better tonight for seein' you."

"I think I hear Ma stirrin'," said Gray, as he rose. "I brought her a few little presents, and I'd like to take them up to her." As he left the room there was the same queer light in his eyes; nevertheless, he moved slowly, like a man tired.

CHAPTER XXV
A Lesson in Deportment.

Gray was shocked at the change in Ma Briskow. She had faded surprisingly. Pleasure lit up her face and she fell into a brief flutter of delight at seeing him; but as soon as their first greeting was over he led her to her lounge and insisted upon making her comfortable. He had tricks with cushions and pillows, so he declared, that they become his obedient servants, and there was a knack in arranging them—the same knack that a robin uses in building its nest. This he demonstrated quite conclusively.

It was nice to have a great, masterful man like this take charge of one, and Ma sighed gratefully as she lay back. "It does kinda feel like a bird's nest," she declared. "And you kinda look like a robin, too; you're allus dressed so neat."

"Exactly," he chuckled. "Robins are the very neatest dressers of all the birds. But look! Like a real robin, I've brought spring with me." He opened a huge box of long-stemmed roses and held their cool, dewy buds against Mrs. Briskow's withered face, then, laughing and chatting he arranged them in vases where she could see them. Next, he drew down the shades, shutting out the dreary afternoon, after which he lit the gas log, and soon the room, when by reason of his glowing personality or his deft rearrangement of its contents, or both, became a warm and cheerful place.

He had brought other gifts than flowers, too; thoughtful, expensive things that fairly took Ma's breath. No one had even given her presents; to be remembered, therefore, with useless delightful little luxuries filled her gentle soul with a guilty rapture.

But these were not gifts in the ordinary sense; they were offerings from the Duke of Dallas and his manner of presenting them ingested every article with dual dignity.

Gray was seated on the side of her couch with her cold hand between his warm palms, and he was telling her about the princess of Wichita Falls when the summons to dinner interrupted them.

Ma was not hungry, and she had expected to have a bite in her own room; but her call was so vigorous in his objections to this plan that she finally agreed to come downstairs.

The Briskow household was poorly organized as yet, and it was only natural that it should function imperfectly; nevertheless, Gray was annoyed at the clumsy manner in which the dinner was served.

"See here, Ma!" Gray threw down his napkin. "You have a beautiful home, and you want to be perfect, don't you?"

"Why, of course. We bought everything we could buy—"

"Everything except skillful servants, and they are hard to find. You are capable of training your cook and your maid, and your up-stairs girl to sweep and make beds; but the test of a well-run house is a well-served meal. Now then, you've not eating a bite, anyhow, and Gus won't mind waiting awhile for his dinner. With your permission, I'd like to take things in hand and add a hundred percent to your future comfort!"

In some bewilderment Ma agreed that she would do anything her guest suggested, whereupon he rose energetically and called the three domestics into the dining room.

"We are going to start this dinner all over again," he announced, "and we are going to begin by swapping places. I am going to serve it as a dinner should be served, and you are going to eat it as— Well, I dare say nature will have to take its course. Mr. and Mrs. Briskow are going to look on. After we have finished you are going to serve us exactly as I served you."

Naturally, this proposition amazed the "help"; in fact, its absurdity convulsed them. The man laughed loudly; the cook buried her ebony face in her apron; the second girl bent double with mirth. But the gentleman was not joking. On the contrary, he brought this levity to an abrupt end, then, gravely, ceremoniously, he seated the trio.

Gray played butler with a correctness and a poised deeply impressive to his round-eyed audience.

It was an uncomfortable experience for all except Gray himself—he actually enjoyed it—and when the last dish had been removed, and he had given instructions to serve the meal over again exactly as he had served it, the three negroes were glad to obey.

"You see what a meddlesome busy-body I am," the guest laughed. "I don't know how to mind my own business, and the one luxury I enjoy most of all is regulating other people's affairs." He was still talking, still lecturing his hearers upon the obligations prosperity had put upon them, when he was summoned to the telephone by long-distance call.

He returned in some agitation to announce: "Well, at last I have business of my own to attend."

Navy blue, brown, beige and gray are the favorite shades and the linings are made of brilliant printed silks. The hemline has become important. It is frequently marked by a wide circular flounce or by a deep hand gathering the fullness of the garment. Both styles are among those predicted for autumn wear.

(Established 1873)

SEX LURE
What qualities in women are most attractive to a man? All women who are not interested in this question may pass on and read something else. What? You'll stay? All right:

Before us is a copy of a matrimonial paper in which thousands of lonesome souls advertise for mates. While aware that beautiful women are as numerous in America as flakes in a snowstorm, we had no idea that there are so many super-beauties, until we began reading the lady-advertisers' descriptions of themselves. Here's a typical ad:

Greenville, Tenn.—Am liberal minded, and men tell me I'm a wonderful pal, am sweet and womanly, love the outdoors, am a beautiful girl, attractively dressed at all times, age 22, 5 feet 6 inches, 120 pounds, dark-blue eyes, dark hair, fair complexion, superbly formed, stenographer, Christian, American, wish to hear from men of education and refinement, with matrimony in view.

Another modest young lady advertiser:

Indianapolis, Ind.—Everyone seems to enjoy being in my company and am told I'm very good looking; was wealthy, but met with reverses so now have only myself; am well educated, a nurse by profession, age 30, height 5-7, weight 120, brown hair, hazel eyes, fair complexion, slender form; splendid personality; American. If I meet the right man, would marry.

Some of the ladies who advertise for husbands print their pictures, shrewdly realizing that "seeing's believing." Striking an average, the advertisers seem convinced that the womanly qualities appealing most to a man are these:

Beautiful face. Attractive figure. Clean character record. Educated and experienced enough not to be a dumbbell. Good pal, not a nag, willing to let husband retain some of his bachelor freedom.

It is characteristic of the young generation that ability to cook, sew and otherwise keep house are considered secondary by the advertisers.

Among the advertisers who have had experience in the love lottery—widows—the word "jolly" seems to be considered as much as lure as "beauty." Incidentally, these experienced ones are almost unanimous in demanding that applicants be "sober and industrious."

How about the woman of advanced years? What can she offer that is alluring? Alas, a perusal of the ads indicates they never get so old but what they believe they still are beauties. An old lady of 72, craving a mate, writes:

San Diego, Calif.—At my age, could not marry a man without means. Own my own home and do all my housework, have one son with me at present; am a widow, age 72, height 5-8, weight 175, hair is silvery white, good looking; pleasant and jolly disposition. Have $7000. Will exchange photos.

You'll note she has a dowry. At least half of the advertisers hold forth similar lures, usually with the string that they will "inherit." The dowry, you know, is an ancient lure, most men wanting to get by without working.

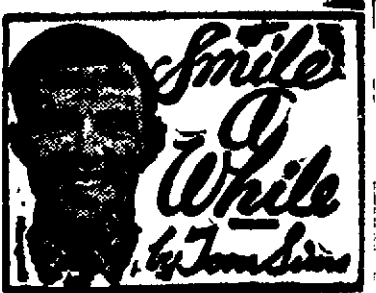

DIAMONDS
Riding a mule across a plowed field in Arkansas, farmer John Huddleston noticed something bright shining in the sunlight. Shortly after, he sold his 40-acre farm for $36,000. For the bright stone he picked up was a diamond.

A government bulletin tells us that, since then, 6000 diamonds have been mined in Arkansas. Diamonds have also been found in other states. Some were of nearby volcanic origin, but most of them were brought down from Canada by glaciers. One of these days a prospector will discover the "mother lode" in the Far North. There'll be some excitement then, unless scientists by that time will be making diamonds cheaply in the laboratory, as they probably will.

FARMERS.
We are far from being balanced evenly in our system of economics. The New York Herald figures that a plasterer in New York City for eight hours' work gets as much money as the farmer has been averaging for 762 eggs.
The intelligent plasterer will tell you that it's not a matter of him getting too much but of the farmer not getting enough. Too many middlemen upset the economic balance. Solution of a great many of our pocketbook problems is in finding a shortcut between farmer and consumer. Like looking for needle in haystack.

JOKER
New York Herald says it takes 23 chickens weighing three pounds each to pay a painter for one day's work in New York City. It figures on the basis of what the farmer, who raises the chickens, receives. The joker becomes apparent when the painter goes out and tries to buy his 23 chickens with his day's wage. A money system, based on exchange of units of commodities instead of gold, might be fairer for most of us.

FRIENDLY
The world is not as friendly as it used to be, laments Mrs. Charlotte Bennett, 99, Michigan pioneer. She blames "commercialized life."
Causes often produce effects the direct opposite of what you expect. The closer people congregate, the more isolated they become. However, people are as friendly as ever. It's simply harder to get acquainted. Better be the big frog in a small puddle than small frog in a lake.

Shut your mouth and open your eyes. Now that's the way for a girl to catch a June groom.

These fool flies wouldn't be so bad if they had sense enough to eat and go on back home.

Our idea of a fine job these days would be sitting on a cake of ice waiting for it to melt.

You never can tell when we will have a flood. Let the children learn to swim this summer.

People going on picnics to forget everything usually forget even the salt for the eggs.

Find a bridge. Jump off and break a leg. A very effective method of staying single this June.

Chairs last longer if tacks are placed upright in the seat.

A porch swing may stay still, and still go a long way toward landing a prospective husband.

Washing the hands in gloves protects the skin wonderfully.

The honeymoon ends when the furniture store collector begins.

Pitching horseshoes would be a nice game if chewing tobacco wasn't such a bad habit.

We took this land away from the Indians. Eskimos better not start anything these hot days.

A common dog is the safest watch dog. Get a valuable dog and burglars may steal him.

To keep a new table, phonograph or piano looking nice, make the fairy wear rubber heels.

Save old electric light globes. Very valuable for scaring stray cats at night.

Our expert opinion is that the man who calls sweat perspiration doesn't know much about it.

Faint heart never won fair lady, but faint light has won fair lady many a faint heart.

Men are not always superior to animals. A horse can switch his tail to keep the flies off.

Get sent to jail for 10 days. Then you will escape marrying during the dangerous June days.

Many homes have been broken up by men wanting to sit on the front porch in their bare feet.

Climb a flag pole and don't come down until July. This is a simple way of staying single.

Every summer, when it gets hot, we decide we want to grow up and be an ice cream maker.

Our idea of fun would be being one of these mammoths frozen in the ice ten million years ago.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

Puff! Puff! Puff!
The Choo Choo Express came to another station in Choo Choo Land and stopped.

All out for Zoo Town," called Mister Punch, the conductor man. "Zoo Town!" repeated Nancy.

There isn't a bit of us of us getting out, for I'm sure that Ruby Joan, my lost rag doll wouldn't come here. She's been dreadfully afraid of animals ever since the day Fido got her and shook her until her cotton all came out. She's never been the same since.

"Oh, but there are no animals in Zoo Town," said Mister Punch. "These are nice quiet zoo animals. Even the tigers and lions are as tame as woolly lumps."

"Oh, that's different," said Nancy. "Come, Nick, let's hurry and ask everybody if they have seen her. Poor, dear Ruby Joan! I'm afraid she'll be crying her shoe-button eyes out if we don't find her soon."

So they hurried away. The first person they met was a rocking-horse.

"Did you see Ruby Joan, my rag doll?" asked Nancy.

"No, I didn't," whined the horse, rocking away down the street.

"Did you see Ruby Joan?" Nancy asked, turning to a shiny black leather foot-stool who wore a handsome red cloth coat with a gorgeous white neck ruff.

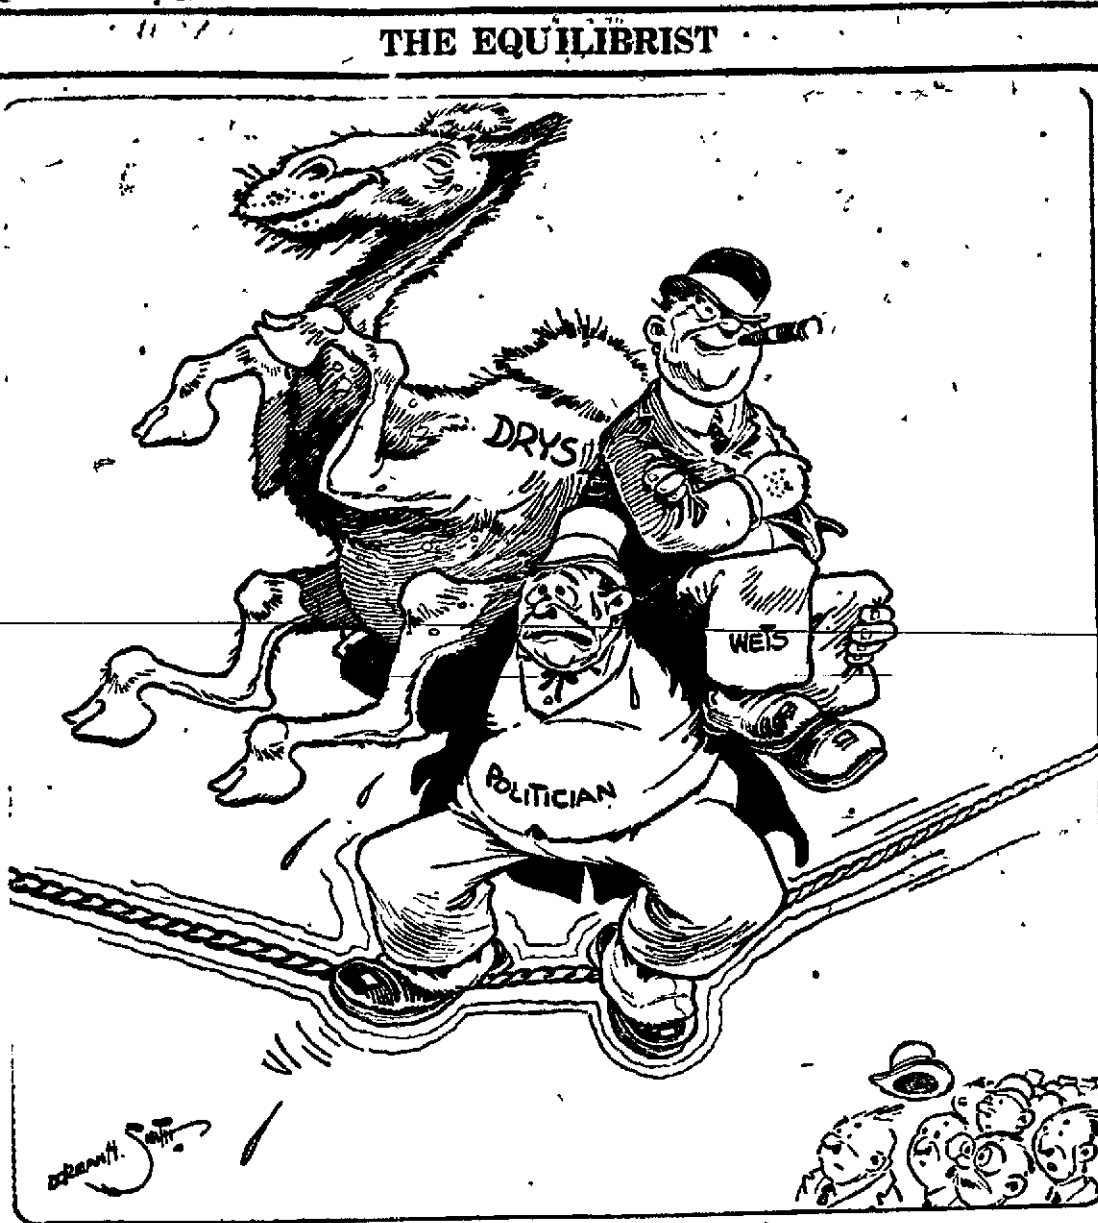

"Sorry, Mistress Nancy, but I haven't seen a sign of her," replied Fuss with a stately bow. "Did you ask the brown fannel monkey with the long tail?"

"No, but we will," said Nancy. But Jocko knew nothing either, or the Teddy Bear, or the Moo Cow, or Radio Rex, the dog that jumped out of his house when you called him.

The twins had to go back to the station and get on Mister Toot's train again without finding Ruby Joan.

BEGIN HERE (TODAY)
Calvin Gray is the enemy of Colonel Henry Nelson, a banker. Gus Briskow strikes oil and meets Gray, who proves a friend in need to the Briskow family. A's, the daughter, falls in love with Gray, but he loves Barbara Parker. Bud Briskow, son of Gus, falls into the hands of an adventurer from whom Gray rescues him. Briskow buys a beautiful home and Gray visits him there. Gray hires Malloy and two associates to keep close watch of Nelson's activities in the oil fields. Gray tells the president of the largest bank in Dallas of his hate for Nelson.

first greeting was over he led her to her lounge and insisted upon making her comfortable. He had tricked with cushions and pillows, so he declared; they become his obedient servants, and there was a knock, arranging them—the same knock. This he demonstrated quite conclusively.

It was nice to have a great, masculine man like this take charge of one, and Ma sighed gratefully as she lay back. "It does kinda feel like a bird's nest," she declared. "And you kinda look like a robin, too; you're allus dressed so neat."

"Exactly," he chuckled. "Robins are the very neatest dressers of all the birds. But look! Like a real robin, I've brought spring with me." He opened a huge box of long-stemmed roses and held their cool, dewy buds against Mrs. Briskow's withered face, then, laughing and chivvying he arranged them in vases where she could see them. Next he drew down the shades, shutting out the dreary afternoon, after which he lit the gas log, and soon the room, whether by reason of his glowing personality or his deft rearrangement of its contents, or both he came a warm and cheerful place.

He had brought other gifts than flowers, too; thoughtful, expensive things that fairly took Ma's breath. No one had even given her presents; to be remembered, therefore, with useless, delightful little luxuries filled her gentle soul with a guilty rapture.

But these were not gifts in the ordinary sense; they were offerings from the Duke of Dallas and his manner of presenting them impeded every article with ducal dignity.

Gray was seated on the side of her couch with her cold hand between his warm palms, and he was telling her about the princess of Wichita Falls when the summons to dinner interrupted them.

Ma was hungry, and she had expected to have a hot in her room; but her caller was so vigorous in his objections to this plan that she finally agreed to come downstairs.

The Briskow household was poorly organized as yet, and it was only natural that it should function imperfectly; nevertheless, Gray was annoyed at the clumsy manner in which the dinner was served.

"See here, Ma!" Gray threw down his napkin. "You have a beautiful home, and you want it to be perfect, don't you?"

"Why, of course. We bought everything we could buy—"

"Everything except skillful servants, and they are hard to find. You are capable of training your cook and teaching your upstairs girl to sweep and make beds; but the test of a well-run house is a well-served meal. Now then, you're not eating, are you, anyhow, and Gus won't mind waiting awhile for his dinner. With your permission I'd like to take things in hand and add a hundred percent to your future comfort."

In some bewilderment Ma agreed that she would do anything her guest suggested, whereupon he rose energetically and called the three domestics into the dining room.

"We are going to start this dinner all over again," he announced, "and we are going to begin by swapping places. I am going to serve it as a housewife should be served, and you are going to do as well. I dare say nature will have to take its course. Mr. and Mrs. Briskow are going to look on. After we have finished you are going to serve us exactly as I served you."

Naturally, this proposition amazed the "help"; in fact, its absurdity convulsed them. The man laughed loudly; the cook buried her ebony face in her apron; the second girl bent double with mirth. But the gentleman was not joking. On the contrary, he thought this levity to be an abrupt end, then, gravely, ceremoniously, he seated the trio.

Gray played butler with a correctness and a poised deeply impressive to his round-eyed audience.

It was an uncomfortable experience for all except Gray himself. He actually enjoyed it—and when the last dish had been removed, and he had given instructions to serve the meal over again exactly as he had served it, the three negroes were glad to obey.

"You don't know how much I enjoyed that," the guest sighed. "I don't know how to mind my own business, and the one luxury I enjoy most of all is regulating other people's affairs." He was still talking, still lecturing his hearers upon the obligations propriety had put upon them, when he was summoned to the telephone by long-distance call.

He returned in some agitation to announce, "Well, at last I have business of my own to attend to."

Gray searched the speaker's face with a speculative gaze. "It's mostly liquid I presume." There was a pause. "It means it's in cash or the equivalent?"

"Oh, sure! These bonds are 'stocks' an' things—" Briskow shook his head disapprovingly. "Land ain't any too safe, either. It's rainin' now, an' it'll keep on rainin' till the farmers is all drowned out. Next year it'll be droughty an' fry 'em to a crisp. No I'm skeered of land. I'm skeered of everything!" This last was said plaintively.

"You're the only man I ever knowed that'd bank my life on. An' you're smart. You wouldn't take a dud, but maybe you'd kinda take me 'kake all of us. I tell you I'm skeered!"

"Just how much confidence do I inspire in you?" Gray's expression was peculiar, for amazement, doubt, eagerness were equally blended.

"This much: I'd turn the hull works over to you, if you'd look out for us."

For quite a while the caller sat with head bowed; with his gaze fixed upon the flames; when he looked up his face was red, his eyes were brighter than usual.

"You don't know how much I'd like to say yes, but I fought Buddy to prevent him from making a mistake, and I shan't allow you to make this one."

"Hm-m! Will you keep me from makin' other mistakes?"

"I will, if I can."

"Maybe that's enough. Anyhow, I'll sleep better tonight for skein' you."

"I think I hear Ma stirring," said Gray, as he rose. "I brought her a few little presents, and I'd like to take them up to her." As he left the room there was the same queer light in his eyes; nevertheless, he moved slowly, like a man tired.

CAPITALS IN COMEBACK AND EASY VICTORY

Pound New Rockford-Carrington Pitchers While Boardman Holds Them Safe

RUN UP A BIG SCORE

I've been reading about Lloyd George planning to come back in England and had to listen to press agents talk about Jess Willard coming back for three years. But Charles Boardman didn't waste much time in coming back. After going badly in Sunday's contest with New Rockford-Carrington, he went in the box for the Capitals again last night and held the visiting club to five hits. He also struck out ten. Aided by error the "Twins" got two runs in the first inning, but after that there wasn't any doubt about the result, for Boardman kept improving and the Capitals kept hitting.

The final score was 14 to 2 and Empire Pleva displayed a merciful streak by calling the game at the end of the eighth "on account of darkness" much to the satisfaction of all, especially the New Rockford pitchers.

Left-handers always have been known as wild birds, especially since Ring Lardner began talking about them. But Running got in the game last night with New Rockford is a right hander and he is wild. He got in the game the other day long enough to pass four and he got in the game last night for two innings and passed five in that time. Whereas the other day the Capitals didn't hit him hard, however, they smacked out five hits in two innings last evening.

"Lefty" Ryan, a tow-head, started for the "Twins" last night and he might have kept going pretty good throughout the game if he had not had miserable support.

Condon, Nord and Boardman produced two base hits last evening. Condon enjoyed a perfect day at bat, getting four hits out of four times up, the last one a scratch, but this because he was fast enough to beat the throw, even if it was bad.

Ramage, who has been going great on short for the "Twins," had a miserable day. He tried to cover second, short and third and then some, and had luck all the time.

Noll figured in a play which gave the fans a chuckle. With Nord at bat he started to steal home, apparently without the knowledge of anyone. There were two out. He was ahead of the throw enough, but Nord hit the ball on the ground toward short, and before he could get started toward first Noll crashed in to him. Nord used to be a star foot-ball man but he didn't have time to tackle, so he just went down.

Nord bats both ways. Yesterday early in the game he was hitting right-handed with a southpaw fling. He is the only player here thus far who seems at home on either side of the plate.

"Chief" Jude demonstrated his effectiveness against Boardman again yesterday. He broke up Sunday's game with a three bagger. Yesterday he got two hits out of three times up, and walked once.

Bismarck had something unusual in the seventh inning, two sacrifice flies, Shanley and Noll. They came because the bases were filling up, in the meantime, but two in one inning is not often seen.

The "Twins" left for Carrington today where they play Bismarck Thursday. Sunday the teams play at New Rockford. Pickering wasn't sure about Friday and Saturday games. They alternate between the towns, to balance Sunday, holiday and week games.

CHAMP'S EYE IS ON MEND

Dempsey Deserts Trout Fishing For Training

Great Falls, Mont., June 12—Refreshed by a day's fishing in the Rocky Mountain trout streams sixty miles west of here, Jack Dempsey returned to camp last night ready to resume training for his championship fight with Tommy Gibbons at Shelby, on July 4.

The cut over the champion's left eye, opened as the result of a bout last Wednesday, is healing so rapidly that Dempsey probably will be able to resume boxing either today or Wednesday. The cut opened up an old wound Dempsey sustained in Atlantic City while training for his contest with Georges Carpentier two years ago. It is at the upper edge of the left eye brow and about an inch long.

Physicians removed the two stitches yesterday, but Dempsey will not risk any chances with the boxing gloves until it is completely healed.

Frank Powers, a New York mid-dleweight, who has been in camp since Dempsey's arrival, returned to the east tonight. Powers was considered too light to stand up under the titleholder's drives.

GIBBONS GETS REAL WORKOUT

Shelby, Mont., June 12—Under a blazing sun, Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul challenger, went through his first real workout here in preparation for his title bout with Jack Dempsey, on July 4. Several hundred visitors, many of them women, thronged Gibbons' camp to watch the challenger unlimber against three sparring partners after a strenuous day which included a fourteen mile run, rope skipping, bag punching and calisthenics.

The challenger, after his workout declared he was rapidly becoming acclimated and that his breathing was improving.

SLUGGER'S WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE

St. Louis, Mo., June 12—Mrs. Sarah E. Hornsby, wife of Rogers Hornsby, star second baseman for the St. Louis Nationals, late yesterday filed suit for divorce in circuit court, charging general indignities. The ball player entered a general denial of the charges.

In her petition, Mrs. Hornsby stated that her husband was quarrelsome, refused to take her to places of amusement and was indifferent to her. She asks alimony in lump sum and the custody of their son, Rogers, Jr., 21-2 years old.

YANKEE FANS SHIVER WHILE TEAM SLIDES

Have Lost 7 of Their Last 10 Games—Huggins Seeks College Players

CUBS GOING STRONG

Chicago, Ill., June 12. A cold chill is running up and down the spine of followers of the New York Yankees. The Yanks returned home in glory less than two weeks ago with a record of 17 games won and three lost on the road. In their last ten games at home the Yanks have lost 7 and today stand only four games ahead of the reawakened Philadelphia Athletics.

Last week the Yanks dropped two out of three to Chicago and one to Washington and yesterday they were defeated by the Cleveland Indians, who made it two out of three, by a score of 4 to 3.

Manager Miller Huggins, emulating the methods of the shrewd Connie Mack, has taken three stars from college diamonds to bolster his team. Lou Gherig, Columbia first baseman, began working out with the Yanks yesterday and today Mike Gatzella, Lafayette infielder, will get in to uniform and Ed Vanderbeck, the Fordham catcher, will soon follow.

The Chicago White Sox beat Boston, 5 to 4, by jumping to the attack and holding the lead despite threats of the Red Sox to retaliate.

The Chicago Cubs made it four straight from Boston, 10 to 3, and six consecutive victories by disappointing Jess Barnes, former Giant on his first reappearance in a Boston uniform.

The Cubs today are one point behind St. Louis and only 12 below Cincinnati in the first division.

All other games in the majors were prevented by bad weather. Ace Elliott, star catcher of the Wichita Falls club of the Texas league, has been purchased by the Chicago Nationals and will report to Manager Killefer Wednesday.

Babe Ruth threw a scare into Sherrod Smith, the former Brooklyn Nationals twirler now with the Indians, by busting a double on his first trip to the plate. After that blow Babe was given four international passes.

HESTER CREW IS TRIMMED

Jamestown Stops Onrush of North City Team in Swatfest

Jamestown, June 12—Though not as peppy a game as the last two the fourth game of the Minot series played Monday evening was a right royal battle for eight innings before darkness ended the swatfest. Though Dennison got his regular daily home run, the Minot squad, limited to just nine men by Gunther's illness, did not play in its usual form.

Gaschelson started for Jamestown but was pulled in the fourth after five men had come up, three of whom landed hits, the third being Dennison's home run. Cantin finished for Jamestown. "Lefty" Kinney pitched for three innings and then Hester put in Dennison, hoping to hold the one-run lead. Kinney is sued five passes in five innings.

SHOP CRAFTS MEN WHO STRUCK DO NOT LOSE ON THEIR RETURN TO WORK. Fargo, June 12—Since the termination of the shop crafts strike, the Northern Pacific Railway company has been restoring pension rights to all striking employees taken back into the company's employ, according to an announcement received in Fargo today. This will continue to be the company's policy it was said in a letter by Charles Donnelly, president of the road, to J. M. Kapelle, vice president in charge of operation. Some time ago officers of the Northern Pacific Shop Crafts organization addressed to H. M. Curry, the company's general mechanical superintendent, a request that the pension rights of employees who went on strike July 1, 1922, be restored to them on their return to work.

Pound New Rockford-Carrington Pitchers While Boardman Holds Them Safe

RUN UP A BIG SCORE

WE have been reading about Lloyd George planning to come back in England and had to listen to press agent talk about Joe Willard coming back for three years. But (Charlie) Boardman didn't waste much time in coming back. After going badly in Sunday's contest with New Rockford-Carrington, he went in the box for the Capitals again last night and held the visiting club to two hits. He also struck out ten. Aided by error the "Twins" got two runs in the first inning but after that there wasn't any doubt about the result, for Boardman kept improving and the Capitals kept hitting.

The final score was 14 to 2 and Umpire Pleva displayed a merciful streak by calling the game at the end of the eighth "on account of darkness" much to the satisfaction of all, especially the New Rockford pitchers.

Left handers always have been known as wild birds, especially since Ring Lardner began talking about them, but Running who got in the game last night with New Rockford is a right hander and he is wild. He got in the game the other day long enough to pass four and he got in the game last night for two innings and passed five in that time. Whereas the other day the Capitals didn't hit him hard, however, they smacked out five hits in two innings last evening.

"Lefty" Ryan, a tow-head, started for the "Twins" last night and he might have kept going pretty good throughout the game if he had not had miserable support.

Condon, Nord and Boardman produced two base hits, last evening Condon enjoyed a perfect day at bat, getting four hits out of four times up, the last one a scratch, but this because he was fast enough to beat the throw, even if it was bad.

Ramapo, who has been going great on "hot" for the "Twins" had a miserable day. He tried to cover second, short and third and then some, and had bad luck all the time.

Noll figured in a play which gave the fans a chuckle. With Nord at bat he tried to steal home, up partly without the knowledge of anyone. There were two out. He was ahead of the throw enough, but Nord hit the ball on the ground to cover short, and before he could get started toward first Noll crashed into him. Nord used to be a star football man but he didn't have time to tackle, so he just went down.

Nord bats both ways. Yesterday early in the game he was hitting right-handed with a southpaw fling. He is the only player here this far who seems at home on either side of the plate.

"Chief" Jude demonstrated his effectiveness against Boardman again yesterday. He broke up Sunday's game with a three bagger. Yesterday he got two hits out of three times up, and walked once.

Bismarck had something unusual in the seventh inning, two sacrifice flies, Shanley and Noll. They came because the bases were filling-up in the meantime, but two in one inning is not often seen.

The "Twins" left for Carrington today where they play Bismarck Thursday. Sunday the teams play at New Rockford. Pickering wasn't sure about Friday and Saturday games. They alternate between the towns, to balance Sunday, holiday and week games.

CHAMP'S EYE IS ON MEND

Dempsey Deserts Trout Fishing for Training

Great Falls, Mont. June 12.—Refreshed by a day's fishing in the Rocky Mountain trout streams, sixty miles west of here, Jack Dempsey returned to camp last night ready to resume training for his championship ship contest with Tommy Gibbons at Shelby, on July 1.

The cut over the champion's left eye, opened as the result of a bout last Wednesday, is healing so rapidly that Dempsey probably will be able to resume boxing either today or Wednesday. The cut opened up an old wound Dempsey sustained at Atlantic City while training for his contest with Georges Carpentier two years ago. It is at the upper edge of the left eye brow and about an inch long.

YANKEE FANS SHIVER WHILE TEAM SLIDES

Have Lost 7 of Their Last 10 Games—Huggins Seeks College Players

CUBS GOING STRONG

Chicago, Ill., June 12. A cold chill is running up and down the spine of followers of the New York Yankees. The Yanks returned home in glory less than two weeks ago with a record of 17 games won and three lost on the road. In their last ten games at home the Yanks have lost 7 and today stand only four games ahead of the reawakened Philadelphia Athletics.

Manager Miller Huggins, emulating the methods of the shrewd Connie Mack, has taken three stars from college diamonds to bolster his team. Lou Gehrig, Columbia first baseman, began working out with the Yanks yesterday and today Mike Galletti, Lafayette infielder, will get in uniform and Ed Vanderbeek, the Fordham catcher, will soon follow.

The Chicago White Sox beat Boston, 5 to 4, by jumping to the attack and holding the lead despite threats of the Red Sox to retaliate.

The Chicago Cubs made it four straight from Boston, 10 to 3, and six consecutive victories by disappointing Jess Barnes, former Giant on his first reappearance in a Boston uniform.

The Cubs today are one point behind St. Louis and only 12 below Cincinnati in the first division.

All other games in the majors were prevented by bad weather. The Wichita Falls club of the Texas league, has been purchased by the Chicago Nationals and will report to Manager Killefer Wednesday.

Babe Ruth threw a scare into Sherrod Smith, the former Brooklyn Nationals twirler now with the Indians, by busting a double on his first trip to the plate. After that blow Babe was given four international passes.

HESTER CREW IS TRIMMED

Jamestown Stops Onrush of North City Team in Swiftest

Jamestown, June 12.—Though not as peppy a game as the last two, the fourth game of the Minot series played Monday evening was a right royal battle for eight innings before darkness ended the swiftest. Though Dennison got his regular daily home run, the Minot squad, limited to just nine men by Gunther's illness, did not play in its usual form.

Guschelson started for Jamestown but was pulled in the fourth after five men had come up three of whom landed hits, the third being Dennison's home run. Cantin finished for Jamestown. "Lefty" Kinney pitched for three innings and then Hester put in Dennison, hoping to hold the one-run lead. Kinney is used five passes in five innings.

LEAFY SPURGE IS SPREADING

New Weed Will Bear Watching, Say Experts at A. C.

Fargo N. D. June 12.—Leafy spurge is spreading in North Dakota and is a weed that will bear watching, according to O. A. Stevens, seed analyst at the North Dakota Agricultural College.

"The first specimens of this weed for 1923 were received on June 5, and a number of inquiries about it are anticipated during the next few weeks," Mr. Stevens reports. The plant has received considerable attention during the past few years and was treated in circular 18 as a weed needing close watching on account of its tendency to spread from the roots. It has been found at numerous places through the eastern and northern parts of North Dakota.

"The plant now is coming into blossom, and at a distance looks something like clumps of golden rod, though not as brightly colored. The flowers are small and inconspicuous but grouped in large clusters at the top of the stems. Both the flowers and the short rounded leaves just below them are of a greenish yellow color.

"The plant contains a milky juice, but it is neither a milkweed nor a southwistle. The stems grow two or three feet high and have numerous narrow leaves something like those of flax. The roots are reddish brown, rather deep and irregular in shape. The flowers produce short, rounded pods each containing three seeds. The seeds are gray and smooth, about the size of a millet grain. At maturity they are thrown out by the splitting of the pod.

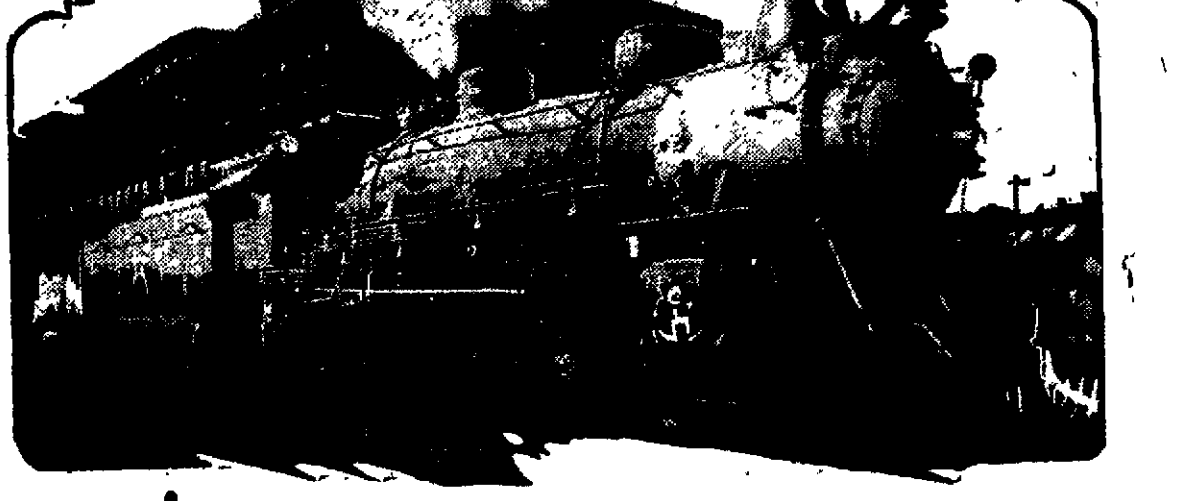

"Leafy spurge is no a new plant in America, but seems to have attracted attention only in the last few years, when it has become recognized as a pest in Minnesota and the Dakotas. Quite recently it has been reported as well established in New York State. How the plant has become distributed is unknown. It is supposed to have been by means of the seeds, but they have never been found in samples of crop seeds examined at the North Dakota Seed Laboratory.

He declared that the North Dakota wool pool is one of the outstanding successful cooperative organizations in the state, and of the state of North Dakota. Mr. Crawford said. "The historical society will appreciate very keenly the contribution Mr. Gowran has made. Ordinary libraries are not in position to take care of such material as it would soon overload their shelves.

RELICS GIVEN FOR ARCHIVES OF SOCIETY

C. C. Gowran of Grand Forks has sent to Lewis F. Crawford, vice president of the State Historical Society a set of directories of the City of Grand Forks for the society's records.

"This set will be very valuable for a study of the early history of Grand Forks, and of the state of North Dakota," Mr. Crawford said. "The historical society will appreciate very keenly the contribution Mr. Gowran has made. Ordinary libraries are not in position to take care of such material as it would soon overload their shelves.

"This historical society is the proper depository for this material, and will be available to all citizens of the state."

Mr. Gowran also sent a number of banquet menus, commencement programs, and such like association mementoes, a portion of which had previously belonged to the late S. S. Titus. There are many other documents, reports, mementoes, connected with North Dakota's early life now awaiting a safe place in the archives of the Historical society, Mr. Crawford said.

Corn-Fed Russian Waifs Are Living Testimonials to Success of American Relief Administrations Activities

These round-faced, plump cheeked boys and girls are all American-fed salvage from the Russian famine. They come from the Ufa district in the Ural region where last year famine conditions were at the worst. The photograph, taken in March, 1923, in the Central children's home at Sterlitamak, was recently received by the American Relief Administration from W. L. Bell, the American supervisor of the district. "A year ago," Mr. Bell writes, "these children were sleeping six to eight in a bed, without clothes, without blankets, and many were starving for want of food or freezing for want of fuel. This year they are clothed, warm, fat and happy. The home was supplied with wood collected by adult famine victims who received an American corn ration in return for their labor, food was furnished for the children by the American Relief Administration, as was also the bedding shown in the picture."

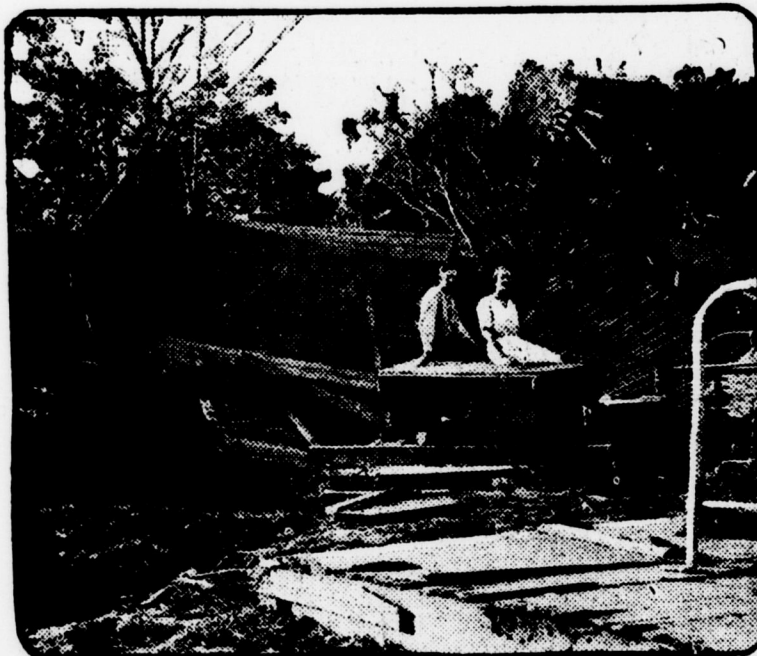

The American Relief Administration, of which Herbert Hoover is chairman, is still feeding some 3,000,000 children in Russia and will continue its work at least until the coming harvest in August. The feeding during the past winter has been confined largely to the children's homes and other institutions, although open kitchens have been maintained in some places where such institutional feeding seemed inadequate to meet the need. Its medical program, which has resulted in the equipment of many hospitals, which otherwise would have had to close their doors, and in checking the spread of typhus, cholera and epidemic, is still going forward.

FLAG DAY

THURSDAY, JUNE 14

Anybody can make a flag out of a few bits of silk or bunting. But it has taken the blood of thousands upon thousands, the ideals and faith and devotion of millions upon millions of upward striving men and women to put into the folds of Old Glory the meaning that makes us bare our heads and salute.

By our own devotion to the ideals for which it stands, we can make our flag mean even more to the generations which will follow us.

Here's to the Stars and Stripes!
